I am second generation Australian. My grandparents were all from Europe. My mother's family were victims of discrimination and intimidation in Warsaw, Poland and so decided to leave for Australia before World War II. They were among the lucky ones.

I am teacher trained but for the last 33 years have worked in a family business. This has allowed me to become involved with organisations such as Courage to Care.

Because of my teaching I have witnessed first hand bullying by students and its far reaching effects on those being bullied. My hope is that one day we will be able to overcome this behaviour in schools.

I also volunteer for an Indigenous organisation that provides educational opportunities for students who otherwise would not have such experiences.
